

WAITED FOR SILK CARGO

Tenyo Maru Held in Yokohama While Perry Celebration Was On.

In order that the silk shippers of Yokohama could commence the month of July with a banner export of silk, the big Toyo Kisen Kaisha steamship Tenyo Maru was compelled to delay her departure from the Japanese port one day in order to get even a bale of the goods, and because she waited that one day she received 1200 bales, valued at $800 per bale, or nearly a million dollars value in round figures. July 1 was a holiday in Yokohama, because it was the fiftieth anniversary of the day when Commodore Perry, United States Navy, succeeded in opening ports of Japan to the world.

The Tenyo Maru, however, ran fast across the Pacific and arrived here last evening, picking up several hours of the lost time. She will be dispatched at 12 o'clock noon today and endeavor to make up all the time she has lost before reaching San Francisco.

Purser Lacy Goodrich of the Tenyo states that the decorations in Yokohama were the finest ever put up for any event. It was a great "Banzai Day," and prominent men of the Empire visited the city, among them being Prince Ito, old Yamagata, Admiral Togo, and a long list of nobles. One of the features of the celebration was the exhibition of original and very rare prints nearly fifty years old, picturing the arrival of Commodore Perry and the great events leading up to the authorized opening of the ports. Then there was a fine display of old Samurai armor, pistols and uniforms.

Among the passengers aboard the Tenyo Maru is Captain J. W. Barnes, U. S. A., who is en route to Port Leavenworth. He is the son of the late W. H. L. Barnes, a San Francisco attorney and brother of the Barnes who, as prosecuting attorney, prosecuted Durand, the murderer, in San Francisco. Minister W. W. Rockhill, who has represented the United States at Peking, is en route to St. Petersburg, where he will be United States Ambassador. He is accompanied by Mrs. Rockhill and his wife's mother, Mrs. Perkins. Admiral Jewell, U. S. N. (retired), is returning home from a pleasure trip to the Orient. Lieutenant-Colonel Lejeune, Marine Corps, is en route to Washington from the Asiatic station, accompanied by his wife and the three Misses Lejeune.

J. R. Morse, one of the big men and an oldtimer of the Far East, is president of the American Trading Company of New York, China, Japan, etc. His was the first American firm to obtain concessions in Korea, and he was also the pioneer railroad builder in the Hermit Kingdom, laying a standard American track. Commander Fujiwara, Imperial Japanese Navy, is en route to London. S. Ida comes to relieve Mr. Abe as Consul Elve at the local Japanese Consulate-General. Mr. Abe plans to leave this month for San Francisco, his new post, on the Korea.

Mrs. C. Paget is the wife of a prominent architect and contractor in Canton, having large contracts with the Chinese government. Mrs. Cuthbert is a sister of the wife of Bishop Partridge of Japan. Elmer Jones is a prominent man of Salt Lake, returning home from an Oriental tour, accompanied by Mrs. Jones, who is well known in woman's club circles in the Mormon capital. T. Rushmore, a representative of Carlowitz & Co., one of the most prominent exporters and importers in the Orient, is going to New York. Major Moses was until recently stationed at Guam and is ordered to Washington. He is a relative of Lieut. Commander Moses, U. S. N., of the naval station.

A. K. Doe is a prominent and wealthy capitalist of San Mateo, returning home from a visit to Oriental cities, and is accompanied by Mrs. Doe and the Misses D. and A. Doe.

There have been several changes on the Tenyo, Chief Engineer Seaver having been detached and placed in reserve. Y. Hora has taken his place. Chief Officer Hinokima has also been relieved in order to accept the captaincy of the Manchuria Maru in the South American trade, and his place has been taken by Mr. Totaka. Captain Bent was ill most of the trip across and was not often out on deck or on the bridge.

The Tenyo stopped this trip at Keelung, Formosa and Shimbizu, for tea. On leaving Keelung an old Chinese stevedore was found asleep. He spoke no dialect that any Chinese on board understood. His lingo was a hybrid Japanese, Formosan and head-hunter talk which was unintelligible. He was put ashore at Nagasaki in the care of the police, as a stowaway.

The Tenyo is discharging 569 tons of freight here and carries 5000 tons for San Francisco.

LOCAL BREVITIES

Tenyo Maru leaves for San Francisco at 12 noon today.

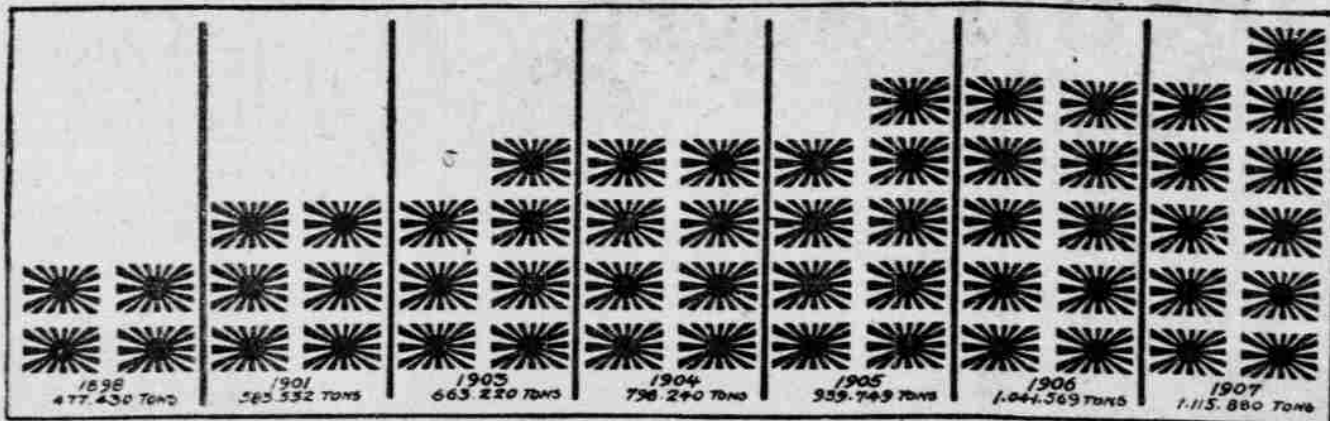

It is rumored that an automobile service is about to be established between Honolulu and Hilo.

Anyone desiring to communicate with Miss Rose Davidson, humane officer, may do so at the rooms of the Associated Charities between 9 a. m. and noon, daily.

A four-pound bunch of flaming Tokay grapes shown in the window of the Gazette Company for a few days past was grown by Frank Aveiro at Kuakini road and Liliha streets.

A conference was held yesterday by Governor Frear on a proposed exchange of land with Haleakala Ranch Company, the ranch company desiring to acquire a portion of desirable pasture land.

At the German Lutheran Church, on Beretania avenue, Pastor W. Felmy, there will be a special service at 11 o'clock in the morning in memory of the 400th anniversary of the birth of John Calvin; 9:45 a. m., Sunday school.

INCREASING TONNAGE OF JAPANESE SHIPPING.

Around the Police Station

The case against Fred Kaek, who was arrested Friday night on a warrant charging him with having beaten up C. D. Pringle, was not tried in police court yesterday. Pringle failed to appear to prosecute his charge and Kaek was discharged by Judge Andrade.

Mr. Kaek came up to the office yesterday to state his side of the affair. He was very courteous and quiet and seemed to be entirely sincere and honest.

He stated that he had loaned some things to Mr. Pringle about two years ago, and that he came into town recently and asked for their return. The things named were a bicycle and two razors. According to Mr. Kaek, Pringle was abusive and used profane language.

Kaek, who is a stalwart, almost gigantic, looking man with a clear eye and an honest mouth, then told Pringle that he must make good by telling him what he had done with the things he had loaned him. According to Kaek, Pringle took up a knife from his desk and made threatening gestures. Kaek took him by the wrists and led him out of the office. He was still leading him when the police interfered.

Ah Chong in Trouble.
Ah Chong has been arrested by the police and is held for investigation, no charge having yet been placed against him. He is alleged, however, to be the Chinese who harbored at his house the 14-year-old girl who ran away from the Girls' Industrial School recently and later returned of her own accord. It is probable that a charge will be placed against the man before tomorrow, when he is scheduled to appear before Judge Andrade.

DISCONTENT IS THEME OF TALK

turbance attracted his attention. Or it may have been that he dropped a piece of raw meat into a boiling spring and, taking it out, cooked, found it good. It was discontent that enabled him to profit by his discovery.

"The Indian came to the edge of the American desert. Muttering prayers to ward off the evil spirits that infested the desolate place, he waited until nightfall, and then ventured on his way in fear and trembling. The desert had conquered the Indian. The 'forty-niner' reached the desert. He also gazed upon it with fear. The desert had conquered him.

"The Pioneer came. He drove to one side, afraid to trust his life upon the sea of desolate, burning sand. The desert had conquered the pioneer. "Then came the twentieth century civilization, and it laughed at the desert. 'I am the spirit of progress,' it said, 'I'll spread wide my canals, and I'll bring waters to quench the fires in your burning bosom.' Civilization conquered the desert. What is civilization, but the product of discontent?"

"There never was a teacher, until the most recent times, who did not teach that discontent was wrong. 'Why, your modern scientist will tell you that all creation, the universe itself, is the very apotheosis of chaos. Order is not heaven's first law, though philosophers have told you time and again that it is.

"Discontent has been the foundation of advancement. It was discontent that gave liberty to this country. It was discontent that prompted the common people of England to demand freedom from the barons.

"Christ was a malcontent. He was born into a world of sham, and he preached discontent with everything but absolute freedom from taint. Christ's disciples were known as the men who turned the world upside down. "When folk become contented, they stagnate. Discontent prompts them to renewed efforts. The progress of human history has been the gospel of discontent. The simple life has done but little good to this world.

"I want you to become discontented with all that is not good, and pure, and true in Honolulu. I want you to be discontented with a moral code which preaches one law for the man and another for the woman. I want you to be discontented with a state of affairs that allows indiscriminate mating. The priest and the physician should stand together before the altar, and no couple should be bound together with the blessing of the church until the cold, calculating man of science, has said that it is right.

"Only by discontent with prevailing conditions can we hope to achieve anything in the way of substantial advancement."

The Asahi theater will have a sensational vaudeville show, opening next Tuesday for five nights.

The Eldid Trio will give their exhibition of marvelous cycling and the Fonsua Troupe are extraordinary equilibrists and acrobats from South America. Other acts and moving pictures will complete the program.

The original Hawaiian Hula Dance is a feature of the regular program on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday nights, at the Star Theater, Liliha street. New pictures on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Admission 5, 10 and 15 cents.

BAKER BADLY WANTED BUT HE KEEPS OUT OF SIGHT

The mysterious Mr. Baker, alias Mr. Bright, also alias Mr. Kaulali and a few others, is a very much wanted man, but he remains out of sight, probably owing to this dislike of notoriety. Sheriff Jarrett is particularly anxious to meet the gentleman. The Sheriff says that notwithstanding reports to the contrary, he was not a guest at the $57 dinner at the Young Hotel, nor was he even invited. So he has not had the pleasure of making the acquaintance of Mr. Baker, and he would very much like to see him.

The truth of the matter is that none of the police has even seen Baker, and they are hunting for him in the dark. Meantime, that's where he remains, probably hoping that in time he will be forgotten and allowed to emerge from his hole without being molested. Baker seems to have done business at most of the Oriental stores of the city, in every instance giving a large order, amounting in some cases to $200 or $300, and carrying away with him a few things, like half a dozen shirts, a dozen ties or a few suits of underwear for immediate use, the rest of the order to be delivered. Also, he neglected to pay for what he took.

THE BYSTANDER

was not devoid of humorous features. The stellar stunt in this line is told about by Editor Ayres as having been perpetrated at Demosthenes' famous last night. A pilgrim from Honolulu entered Demosthenes' place last Saturday night and called for an oyster cocktail. Presently what was alleged to be an oyster cocktail was served. The guest swallowed a mouthful of the concoction, but quickly repented his action, for the mixture went down his throat like a torchlight procession. Gee, how it burned! Summoning the waiter, the guest ordered another cocktail, this time containing less of the elements of hell fire. After a brief absence the mien returned with the intelligence that he could not make another cocktail for the reason that the supply of tomato catsup had given out. To quote his own words: "We had no tomato sauce to make the first cocktail with and had to use all tabasco to make it red."

The other specimens of facetiae occurred in connection with the Fourth of July celebration. The parade committee asked the local undertaker for the loan of his hearse to help swell the parade. Mr. Lockington was sorry to deny the favor, but in view of the fact that there was to be a funeral at one and the same time that the parade would be in progress, he really had no option in the matter. A compromise was arrived at, however, and the undertaker loaned the top hat and other habiliments of his dismal calling to the driver of the Volcano House float, whose finished appearance excited the admiration of the crowd at large.

A feature of the parade was an ambulance wagon, in which it was planned to place a lay figure of an injured man, impressively bandaged. Hilo is realistic or nothing, and being desirous of giving the spectators along the route the real McCoy, the parade committee waited on John O'Rourke and requested the presence of his jockey, Drollette, who had broken his collarbone in an accident in a race on the previous day, in the ambulance wagon. O'Rourke's answer must be left to the imagination. Cold type can not describe it.

All of which goes to show that Hilo is not without the saving grace of humor.

Haiku 6s—$1000 at 100.50.
McBryde 6s—$1000 at 95.50.

Hilo Railway Extension.

The most important announcement of the week along commercial lines was that the financing of the Hilo railway extension is now an accomplished fact, and that the actual work of construction is to be begun immediately and pushed ahead as fast as possible. The matter has for some time back been in the hands of the B. F. Dillingham Company, which has accomplished the financing through J. F. Morgan and the Waterhouse Trust Company. Two hundred and fifty thousand dollars has been paid in, and the remainder of the necessary funds is virtually assured. The bond issue authorized was $800,000. It is estimated that $750,000 will be required, but this will be applied not only to the extension of the line, but also to the purchase of rolling stock and other equipment. Grading will be commenced within the next thirty days, A. A. Wilson being the probable contractor.

University Club Site.

The University Club has taken up anew the proposition of acquiring a permanent home. Four propositions were placed before the members in a circular letter sent out yesterday. The four sites proposed are: Halealea lawn, at the corner of Richards and Hotel streets; the Campbell Estate property on Emma street; the Bishop Estate property, used as a tennis court by the Y. M. C. A., and the James property on Hotel street.

Pineapples.

Reports brought back from the Coast this past week are to the effect that the business of shipping fresh pines has been rather overdone and that the dealers there are unable to dispose of much of the fruit sent them. A large quantity of it is being left on the wharf to spoil on account of the inability of the fruit men to take care of it.

Real Estate.

There has been comparatively little doing in real estate lines during the past week, possibly on account of the unusual weather for this time of year. No transactions involving any large sums took place, and only a few small sales were made.

Somewhat of a surprise was caused by the prices brought by two parcels of Manoa valley property at commissioner's sale, at auction, in the office of

J. F. Morgan yesterday. The two pieces of land were a part of the Bush property, and the sale was in connection with the partition proceedings. One of the pieces was bought by Carl Block for $1850, the other went to Ernest Langheim for $750. Both figures were considerably in excess of what had been expected. A few suburban lots were sold during the week. Real estate dealers, however, say that of late they have noticed a general tendency on the part of many of the suburbanites to move downtown, and anything good at a reasonable price is eagerly snapped up.
